Offered by the Department

Master of Arts degree in women's studies.

Major in women's studies.

Minor in women's studies.

The Major

Women's studies explores who women were, who women are, who they might be, and how their lives and human interactions are affected by society's values, traditions, and institutions. SDSU has offered courses in women's studies since 1969 and has one of the strongest academic programs in the nation. Its origins are in the women's movement, and its vision includes a world free of sexual, racial, age, and class distinctions and other inequalities.

Courses are designed to provide students with a coherent, integrated, and academically rigorous education. Content areas include concepts of self and family, theories of sex differences, history, cultural contributions, and the study of society's institutions. The emphasis is on increasing the awareness of objective conditions in women's lives throughout the world, and on developing critical analytical skills.

A degree in women's studies may be used as preparation for a wide range of careers. Professional opportunities exist in political and social agencies working with women and developing public policy on women's issues such as health care, employment, family violence, and education. Women's studies students prepare for careers in such fields as law, journalism, public administration, social services, personnel, and psychology. The skills that women's studies majors develop in critical thinking and analysis are highly valued in many additional occupations and professions today. A women's studies major may also go on to advanced academic work preparing for a career as a women's studies scholar.

Many women's studies majors plan double majors to enhance their career opportunities.

Women's Studies Dual Degree

The MEXUS/Women's Studies program is a partnership between San Diego State University (SDSU) and the Universidad Autonoma de Baja California (UABC) located at Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico. Students may enter the program at either of the two universities, and must spend a minimum of two years in both the United States and Mexico.

Participants in the MEXUS/Women's Studies program are enrolled in the Women's Studies major at San Diego State University.

In addition to completing 49 units of General Education requirements at SDSU, students in the MEXUS/Women's Studies program must complete 33 units of women's studies courses, and either 68 units of economics, or 60 units of psychology, or 68 units of sociology. Approximately one-half of all of these requirements are completed in Spanish while attending school in Mexico. Students are also required to participate in an internship program, which provides MEXUS/Women's Studies students with the opportunity to work for an international institution and to develop a network of contacts in the private or public community, a vital step towards employment after graduation.

Successful participants in the MEXUS/Women's Studies program will earn both the Bachelor of Arts degree in women's studies from San Diego State University and either the Licenciatura in sociología or economía from UABC.
